Dear Stakeholder:

Turquoise Lodge Hospital is making some changes to its service menu options. In an effort to expand services to adults, the hospital is increasing both adult medical detox and social rehabilitation services. In addition, the hospital is working to begin providing an Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) to meet demand. By creating these enhanced services, Turquoise Lodge Hospital will provide more beds for medical detox and social rehabilitation needs, along with providing continued substance abuse treatment when the consumer returns to their community.

After careful consideration, and as a result of these changes, the Department of Health will no longer offer adolescent medical detox and social rehabilitation effective August 7, 2016. The decision, in part, is based on underutilization.

Several IOPs for adolescents have opened all over the state of New Mexico to address the adolescent substance abuse problem in a community setting. The following are resources that youth can access to address substance misuse needs.
